WARP 9

Good news for you Star Trek fans! Paramount with Gene Roddenbury have decided to make a full length brand new Star Trek movie. Although they have not approached the star for a contract yet (me!) they have got most of the cast back. Like William Shatner (Cap't Kirk) DeForrest Kelly (Dr. McCoy) James Doohan (Scotty) George Takei (Sulu). Leonard Nimoy has signed for the movie, but he says he will not *I repeat* will not be in an upcoming TV show if there is one. At last report James Doohan (Scotty) will be able to keep his beard he has grown since the show was taken off the air. As I, as a Klingon understand it, they are making the movie so that they can pay for the TV show. What I mean by this is this: Most of the old Star Trek sets were either given away or wrecked. You see, those sets are much too expensive to make new ones for a TV show, so they are making them for the movie, then use them for the TV show (I may be wrong)

Acknowledged,

Kohn R. Klingon

MOVIE REVIEW:

Journey to the Far Side of the Sun

This movie was on "The Big Money Movie" on Tuesday April 8. The title might make it sound stupid, but it was actually an excellent film.

The movie started when a new planet was discovered directly opposite the Earth, and on the other side of the sun. It had the exact weight, size, and orbital path as Earth. Because it is always on the opposite side of the Earth, it was never noticed until some spaceship from earth was photographing the far side of the sun. Anyway, NASA is in a real hurry to send a man to this new planet and win the space race against the USSR.

The spaceship is built, and they send 2 astronauts to the planet. They travel through space, but make a crash landing on the planet. One astronaut is badly injured. However they find that the planet is Earth, and that they have returned three months early. The surviving astronaut, though, has trouble adjusting to life on Earth. Everything appears to be a mirror image to him; he sees everything backwards. This is what really makes the movie interesting. No one can figure out why he returned early, or why everything is backwards to him. They finally theorized that Earth has a double planet.
