You may have noticed on our cover it says "15¢" then below it it says 20¢. Well, it's 20¢ not 15¢. You may have noticed our extra page (people usually read this last) that we put on for your 5¢. Sorry we screwed up our schedule again but we had to tell you we are renting "20 Million Miles to Earth" for the club. Price will be 60¢ Or 50¢ with the coupon below. Get as many people to come as you can. The more people, the better the next movie. It might even be in color. Bring all your friends. If you can sell a least 8 tickets, you will get your ticket for no price (Not Robert) at all. Contact Brad Boyle, Dan Rich or Troy Thorum.

10% off regular price when you buy your ticket with this coupon in your hand. It's even "Official"

MOTHTRA

Two tiny native women are caught by Japanese bad guys and are put in a nightclub as freaks. These tiny women are supposedly priestesses of a island where they serve for their god They prey & prey so that they will be saved from these men by their God. Later, a giant caterpillar comes to Tokyo where it unintentionally wrecks some of Tokyo. The caterpillar is imperivious toall weopons, of course. It goes to a tower where it spins a cocoon. Eventually emerging from the giant cocoon is a giant moth, which is named Mothra. M-othra then saves the two priestesses and takes them back to their island. Mothra later came back in other movies in both caterpillar & moth form. In "Godzilla vs. the Thing", Mothra fights good old Godzilla. Later, she helps Godzilla and Rodan fight Ghidrah in "Ghidrah, the three headed Monster". Then she helped Godzilla fight a giant crab in "Godzilla vs. the Sea Monster". This time she was in Moth form. Mothra's last movie to this date was "Destroy all Monsters". She was in caterpillar form in it.

DEAR KOHN

Dear Kohn,

I am very pleased with OfMSF Newsletter #4. Even though I had to wait 2 weeks, it was worth it. I agree with your idea about expanding to 6 pages. I will pay you 40% in advance for the next two May issues, May 17 and May 31.

I couldn't find many mistakes in this issue. I checked the TV Guide & am glad that you put an "s" on "My Favorite Martians". However, you made two mistakes on the 3rd of May's TV Guide. First, you know that you misspelled valley in "Valley of the Dinosaurs". Second, the shows on Creature Features are listed in the wrong order. Undersea Kingdom goes in the middle of the Godzilla movies, not after. You made this same mistake on the 10th.

Otherwise, it was error free. Keep up the good typing.

Sincerely Yours,
Corny Kimball
Editor LLFW

Sci-Fi IN THE CARTOONS

THIS WEEK: Josie and the Pussycats in Outer Space

Each week, this column will feature reviews on science-fiction cartoons. The first article is about "Josie and the Pussycats in Outer Space," a CBS show.

Josie and the Pussycats in Outer Space, (abbreviated JatPiOS) came from a show that was on CBS Saturday mornings, called Josie & The Pussycats. It was on in 1970-72, and was about a rock group who always got mixed-up in criminal plots, often because the criminals wanted to hear their music, and single-handedly stopped them. Then, in fall '72, they were accidentally shot into space by a tourist rocket that went off. Ooops, NASA goofed. Anyway, their adventures on other planets were even stupider than the ones on Earth. In the first episode, Josie gets kidnapped. This episode is okay, compared to the sixth one, in which a giant frog keeps the Pussycats for a circus. Also, in every other episode, the inhabitants wanted to invade earth, and it was just like the original episodes, because they stopped the criminals. In addition to those episodes, it is fakey just like Gilligans Island. The Pussycats are just visiting inside the rocket, but have all their instruments & other crap stored inside the rocket. As you can see, it was one of the worse cartoons.

NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD

Judith O'Dea,Duane Jones,Marilyn Eastman.Directed by George Romero.This shocker,virtually unnoticed at its first screenings,is now a'cult Classic'.

"Living Dead" emerges as a terrifyingly effective piece of horror film.The plot has the newly dead come back to life and march upon a horrified humanity,devouring human flesh.While scientists discover that that radiation from a returning satellite may be the cause,a group of people fight for their lives in a small town.

Some love it,some hate it- But its definitely not for the young or squeamish
